The Rev. Robert F. Houlihan S.J. Educator Series

The 1920s and 30s were a very precarious and complicated time in Mexican history. It witnessed the rise in Mexico of an anticlerical revolutionary government, which led to the enactment of anticlerical legislation such as the 1926 Calles Law. These laws placed stringent penalties and restrictions on the Catholic Church and the priests serving as pastors. The consequence of the Mexican government's attack on the Catholic Church was the rise of both a passive resistance movement and an armed rebellion. The 1927 armed revolt became known as the Cristero rebellion or Cristiada. It was concentrated in the west central area of the country, the Bajío, and the city of Guadalajara. As part of their planned assault on the church, and as a response to the Cristero armed rebellion, the Mexican government turned to arming the peasants. This group became known as "the agraristas." They were involved in the arresting and execution of a number of priests. While a host of people were either imprisoned or executed or both, there are two in particular that deserve some special attention; one is Blessed Father Miguel Pro SJ and the other is St. Father Jose Maria Robles, a Brother Knight.

Miguel Pro joined the Mexican Jesuit community as a young priest in 1909. Then in 1917, the Mexican revolution forced him and other religious orders out of the country. As an expatriate he traveled to the United States, Nicaragua, Spain, and eventually Belgium where he was ordained in 1925. Despite poor health, and the revolutionary Mexican government persecution of the Catholic Church, he petitioned the Society to allow him to return, which was granted in 1926. Upon returning he found that churches were closed and that public worship was banned, forcing many Catholics into hiding. Nevertheless, Fr. Pro often wore disguises in order to work with the poor as well as minister to Catholic families. During the Cristiada he continued his ministerial work to those in hiding and those taking part in the armed revolt. In November 1927, he was falsely accused by the Mexican government of trying to assassinate the president elect Alvaro Obregon. He was captured on 22 November and without trial was sentenced to be executed by firing squad the next day, 23 November. Declining a blindfold, he held a crucifix in one hand and a rosary in the other, and with arms out in imitation of the crucified Christ he forgave his executioners. Just before the firing squad was ordered to shoot, Fr. Pro shouted out what would become the defiant cry of the Cristeros, "Viva Cristo Rey!" -"Long live Christ the King!" When the initial shots failed to kill Fr. Pro, one soldier approached and shot him at point-blank range. Nearly 60,000 people took part in his funeral service and burial. Consequently, the Cristeros armed revolt became even more invigorated, fighting with a renewed enthusiasm, many of them carried the newspaper photo of Father Pro before the firing squad. Fr. Pro was made blessed by Pope John Paul II as a Catholic martyr on September 25, 1988.

In 1913 at the age of 25, Father Jose Maria Robles was ordained a priest in the city of Guadalajara. Soon thereafter he joined the Knights of Columbus, council 1979. Working as a pastor in the historic St Augustine parish in Tecolotlan, Fr. Robles became noted for being a dynamic and multi-faceted clergyman. His enthusiasm and devotion to the church were contagious. Under his pastoral guidance religious education and lay groups began to thrive. In addition, he authored numerous religious pamphlets and newsletters as vehicles for both spreading the Gospel message and to address controversial issues as they arose. Then starting in March 1926, things in Mexico got worse. The Jalisco state government enacted laws requiring all priests serving in churches to be registered and authorized by civil authorities. In response, Archbishop Jimenez urged priests to stay in their parishes, but not to register. Fr. Robles complied and preached openly against the movement of secularism. After enactment of the Calles Law, the government's attack against the church was increased. Government authorities, with the help of the agrarista, started arresting and executing priests, fomenting the rise of the Cristeros revolt. On Dec 12, 1926, on the feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe, government officials ordered the arrest of Fr. Robles. Unable to find him, the authorities began a house-to-house search. Then on June 25, the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, Fr. Robles was arrested as he was preparing to say mass, and was unceremoniously marched to the agraristas' barracks. Around midnight seven agraristas led Fr. Robles from the prison and began a long four-hour march up the hill to where he was to be executed. As they were preparing to hang him, Fr. Robles recognized the agraristas hangman. He then took the rope from him and placed around his own neck. After the hanging Fr. Robles' body was left at the base of the tree. Out of deference and respect for this noble priest, people from the local village, at great peril for their own safety, recovered his body and presented it for burial. Father Robles was canonized by Pope John Paul II on May 21, 2000.

Reflecting on the tragic circumstances surrounding both priests, a couple of burning and unsettling questions emerge. One is this, why would the Mexican revolutionary government orchestrate and then unleash such a virulent sustained persecution and attack upon the Catholic Church? If we are truly honest in our approach to this, the answer that comes to light may not be one we want to hear. Next, being that a number of Brother Knights, nearly 20, were executed during the Cristeros revolt; we need to ponder on how would we respond, and what would we do if faced with similar circumstances? Therefore, it is fitting then that Brother Knights everywhere should take some time to thank the Lord for not having to face such tests, and for the enduring inspirational courage of these valiant martyred pastoral priests.
